

* Does euthanasia represent owner's affection? (3)

Dr. Iwamoto said. "the way of religious perception is different between foreigners and us."

I haven't good feeling when I let animals put down, so I think, euthanasia should conduct in order to relief from the pain only with being painful even if animals are alive.

I also can consider that when people transfer to another place, it may be better method than forcing pet on other person.

Maybe this way seems to be cool thinking but, might lead to real animal protection, so I can understand what foreign workers wanted euthanasia.

Yoshiko Kato, a commentator of the Ueno Zoo approves euthanasia saying that I can't allow foreigners to keep animals temporary, however I can understand they haven't neighbors to help find out the person who ^{can} keep their pets. If the owner of the pet changed, the case would happen that pets couldn't get enough affection. I think their choice of euthanasia represents their affection.
