Last, I want to introduce Mr. T, company employee. He had experience which made him consider euthanasia. He picked up a white cat drawing her bloody leg. 4 years ago.

After taken to a hospital, she recovered 2 months after. Even though he posted a sign "I keep your cat" in front of his house. No one appeared.

She had noble face of Parsia that made her clearly find a pet cat. She was named "Nana" and had been done the operation of contraception. She had good manner. Mr & Mrs. T hasn't a child, they loved her.

One day she backed home with shambling. According to a doctor she was been beaten her buttocks which caused cystitis. His wife put a diaper on her.

When she cat was taken an operation of cystitis, the doctor said "Her death is near".

Nana got out their house with drawing her leg

Looking her pain, Mr T suggested his wife euthanasia. But she didn't accept it because she wanted to die her in their house.
